

Sam Lewis

Born and raised on the Eastern Plains of Colorado, Sam Lewis developed a love for hunting and the outdoors at an early age. Growing up hunting mule deer and antelope across the wide-open country of eastern Colorado gave him a deep appreciation for the land, wildlife, and everything that goes into a successful hunt.

What started as a childhood passion quickly became a lifelong way of life. Over the years, hunting has remained a major part of Sam's life, giving him countless opportunities to spend time outdoors, continue learning, and build a greater respect for the animals and country he hunts.

Sam brings that lifelong passion and experience with him to Geneva Park Outfitters and enjoys being part of the entire hunting experience—from the preparation and challenges along the way to those unforgettable moments when everything comes together. For Sam, a great hunt is about more than the harvest; it's about the adventure, the memories made, and sharing the experience with others.